FILL HOLIDAY STOCKINGS WITH GIFTS FROM THE POST OFFICE

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Santa’s helpers can step away from the shopping frenzy and into Post Office lobbies to buy those holiday gifts and stocking stuffers remaining on their lists. Better still, click-of-the-mouse-shopping in the Post Office that never closes – www.usps.com – simplifies the task.

More than ever before, the U.S. Postal Service – now in its 214th season of delivering holiday greetings around the world – offers more items from which to choose and greater ease of use. Here are some suggestions:

- www.postalartgallery.com offers a myriad of framed stamp images.
- Prepaid First Class Phone Cards make ideal gifts for anyone.
- Postal Money Orders allow loved ones to buy exactly the gifts they want. These money orders are safe and secure, and can be purchased in any amount up to $500 for just 90 cents. The fee for Money Orders more than $500 and up to $1,000 is $1.25.
- Decorative stationery is available at most Post Offices. Computer paper, note cards, greeting cards, wrapping paper and labels bear the Postal Service’s many stamp images.
- Stamps are a practical gift to give; and stamp collecting, a fascinating hobby.

“The Postal Service offers novel gifts and stocking stuffers for holiday giving, and shoppers are sure to find a subject to fit any interest,” said Chief Marketing Officer Anita Bizzotto.
