USPS GOVERNORS ELECT LEADERS

Washington, DC – The Governors of the U.S. Postal Service today elected James C. Miller III of Virginia to be chairman and Alan C. Kessler of Pennsylvania to be vice chairman for 2005.

Governor Miller, a former Director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, was appointed a Governor in April 2003. He has broad government, private sector and academic experience and serves as Chairman of The CapAnalysis Group, an economic, financial and regulatory consulting firm associated with the international law firm Howrey Simon Arnold & White.

Governor Kessler is a Philadelphia attorney and partner in the firm of Wolf, Block, Schorr and Solis-Cohen, LLP, with substantial experience in the defense of class-action litigation, including securities, antitrust, toxic tort and civil rights cases. He was appointed a Governor in November 2000 and serves as Chairman of the Strategic Planning Committee.

Since 1775, the Postal Service has connected friends, families, neighbors and businesses by mail. It is an independent federal agency that visits 142 million homes and businesses every day and is the only service provider delivering to every address in the nation. The Postal Service receives no taxpayer dollars for routine operations, but derives its operating revenues solely from the sale of postage, products and services. With annual revenues of more than $69 billion, it is the world's leading provider of mailing and delivery services, offering some of the most affordable postage rates in the world. The Postal Service delivers more than 46 percent of the world's mail volume—some 206 billion letters, advertisements, periodicals and packages a year—and serves seven million customers each day at its 37,000 retail locations nationwide.
